Experience

A Registered Nurse with 24 years' experience within healthcare. I have developed excellent planning, communication and interpersonal skills across various nursing disciplines, ranging from accident and emergency to palliative care. My most recent clinical roles focused on emergency community nursing and providing therapy and dialysis for patients with end stage kidney disease. Additionally, I have extensive experience assessing clients for aids and equipment to support their activities of daily living.

Expertise includes caring for patients and clients in accident and emergency settings, hospital wards, recovery units, nursing homes and clinics. I am experienced in acute medicine, emergency community care, elderly care (including dementia), and community rehabilitation. My practice encompasses managing patients with complex long-term health conditions, traumatic and acquired brain injuries, and various disabilities. I remain committed to staying updated with research and evidence based practices.

Teaching has been an integral part of my career. While employed by a college of further education, I marked palliative care assignments for students working in nursing homes. These courses aimed to equip care staff with the knowledge and skills needed to provide end of life care to individuals in their final months of life.

With a keen interest in respiratory malignancy and asbestos related disease. I have authored numerous Court reports for individuals diagnosed with mesothelioma. My instructions as an expert witness include claimant and defendant cases, as well as appointments as a single joint expert,

I have prepared liability and quantum care reports in the UK, Europe and Worldwide. These reports cover a wide range of conditions and scenarios, including:

- Asbestos related conditions including mesothelioma
- Brain Injury
- Cancer (breast, bowel, lung)
- End of life care and palliative care

- Loss of service/Dependency cases
- Orthopaedic injuries, including amputation
- Renal care, including dialysis
- Spinal injuries, including Cauda Equina syndrome
- Loss of services/Dependency.

Working as a case manager for individuals with very complex needs has provided extensive experience in managing comprehensive care packages. The role encompassed recruitment, conducting risk assessments, and supervising staff to maintain safety and quality of care. Responsibilities included liaising with social services, Clinical Commissioning Groups, and the client's multidisciplinary team to ensure cohesive and effective support.

Further to nursing qualifications and experience I have undertaken medico legal training and aware of my responsibilities as an expert witness under the Civil Procedure Rules. I have experience in liaising with the legal team and understanding of the medico-legal litigation process. I have participated within numerous case conferences with Counsel, expert meetings, joint discussions and have given evidence in Court on 5 occasions. I attend regular training courses for ongoing professional development.
